specific needs of the client.*

This is her goal at Boca Nursing Services, which she launched 18 years ago after spending time as a registered nurse who worked with private patients. "Continuity is very important to our clients," Glamoclija says. "It's comforting to know that someone who understands what you need and want is always available to help."

To help ensure continuity of care and provide peace of mind for her patients and their families, Glamoclija developed a team approach designed to provide each client with a team of caregivers.

"When I first meet with a patient, I immediately have an idea of which caregivers will make the best team," she says. "We've discovered that there is a high degree of patient satisfaction that results from matching the right team to the patient."

At Boca Nursing Services, it's not unusual for a team of caregivers to stay with a patient for many years. Whether they're at home or in the hospital, our clients are able to live more enjoyable lives thanks to the team approach," Glamoclija says.

Leaving Ft. Lauderdale via Southwest Airlines to Turks and Caicos

Turks & Caicos

Six journalists from South Florida were personally invited by the Office of Tourism of The Turks & Caicos to showcase the amazing luxury hotels and resorts on the Islands, and to also show that they worked very hard to restore the beauty of the islands after the storm season.

On Nov. 5th, the flight we boarded at Ft. Lauderdale International Airport was no ordinary flight. We had the pleasure of boarding the inaugural flight since Southwest Airlines now offers regular non-stop service from Ft. Lauderdale to Providenciales, Turks & Caicos in an astoundingly brief 90-minute flight.

We arrived at the getaway island of Providenciales, often affectionately called “Provo” by the locals, which is the Turks and Caicos’ largest city and home to many luxury resorts with elegant suites, penthouses, and spas all lining the beautiful white sands and turquoise waters that the islands are renowned for.

One thing that I found quite interesting, which is something that I feel compelled to let everyone know, was how clean and inviting everything appeared. Many people, including myself, were under the impression that the islands would still be showing signs of damage from the terribly active storm season that many in the Caribbean had to endure. This was not the case at all. Much work was put into getting everything back to the way it was before the storms. The Office of Tourism is keen on welcoming back tourists from all walks of life to enjoy the finest hotels, restaurants, spas, and popular outdoor activities such as snorkeling, paddle-boarding, canoeing, and countless other ways to soak up the sun, white sands, and turquoise waters.

On our first night, we had a beautiful cocktail reception and dinner on the beachfront property of the Gansevoort Resort. We had the pleasure of spending time with Sharlene Cartwright-Robinson, who is the first female Premier of The Turks & Caicos Islands. We were also joined by Steve Goldberg, Southwest’s Senior Vice President of Operations and Hospitality, along with some of his fellow team members from Southwest Airlines. The food was delicious; a beautiful mélange of Caribbean and Asian cuisines, wok-seared right in front of us on the beach as we all enjoyed the bonfire.

After some breakfast the next morning, we all got on a chartered boat to experience the natural beauty of the islands. We cruised along Grace Bay on route to the outer islands, making sure to hit some good snorkeling spots during our trip.

Later that evening, we relocated to The Shore Club, another luxury resort. We had amazing cocktails and a delicious dinner at Sui-Ren, a fantastic restaurant on property that seamlessly blends Japanese and Peruvian Cuisine. A must for lovers of seafood and sushi!

The following morning, on Nov. 7th, we enjoyed a fun and informative paddle-board tour which was great for getting to know much of the local flora and fauna! Later that evening, we all went on a Sunset Catamaran excursion in hopes of catching “the best sunset in the Caribbean.” Unfortunately, the weather was not on our side; however, we still enjoyed our trip on the Sunset Catamaran and had lots of fun.

After the trip, we stopped at Fire & Ice, a waterfront restaurant located at the Blue Haven Resort. They featured an excellent buffet that included fresh seafood and BBQ.

On our final day, Nov. 8th, we visited The Potcake Place, a unique animal shelter that does their very best to find homes for “potcakes”(homeless dogs). Then, we visited Ianthe Pratt Primary School, where we spent some time with the local children and gave them gifts. At the school, we also met Ramon Andrews, the new Director of Tourism for the Turks and Caicos Islands.

Before heading back to the airport, we stopped for lunch at Fresh Catch, where we tried some of the most authentic local cuisine.

We enjoyed our stay in the beautiful islands of The Turks and Caicos very much! A big thanks to all of the people in the Tourism Board and Southwest Airlines for making this amazing trip possible, hospitable, and incredibly pleasant.

Brenners Park-Hotel & Spa is proud of its newly awarded Green Globe Certification. The luxury hotel sees the award as a mark of appreciation for its employees who make an enthusiastic contribution every day to ensure that all set targets are reached.

Green Globe is the first worldwide programme for certification and performance improvement that is specially developed for the travel and tourism industry. The organisation assists companies in increasing their economic, social and ecological sustainability. 70 percent of the criteria deal with the environmental sector, the remaining 30 percent relate to socio-cultural aspects. Successful and sustained efforts are rewarded.

Great delight at the Oetker Collection: Brenners Park-Hotel & Spa in Baden-Baden has added another prestigious feather to its cap in the form of the coveted Green Globe Certification. Four other pearls in the renowned hotel collection already hold this environmental standard: Hôtel du Cap-Eden-Roc in Antibes, Château Saint-Martin & Spa in Vence, the Parisian palace hotel, Le Bristol and L'Apogée Courchevel in the French Alps.

Behind all these projects is the Oetker Collection's CSR Department which was formed in 2011. It is responsible for implementing social and environmentally relevant measures throughout the year. Jean-Georges Restaurant at Waldorf Astoria Beverly Hills

Ritz Paris

The Waldorf Astoria Beverly Hills opened June 1, 2017

Jean-Georges arrives in the Golden State with a collection of his finest dishes from New York City and beyond. The restaurant is the work of famed French chef Jean-Georges Vongerichten, whose name adorns restaurants from Japan to London to New York City, and now, to Los Angeles.

Christian Boyens

The Ritz Paris is reborn and freshly restored, a transformation which has never been accomplished since the opening of the hotel in 1898.

Christian Boyens has worked at some of the world's most prestigious hotels including the Kempinski in Hamburg and The Peninsula Beverly Hills. He joined the Ritz Paris as general manager in 2011 and spearheaded the hotel's four-year, roughly US$500 million renovation.

"We wanted to create something unique, that's almost like a private residence. It was also about making the old hotel better while removing its weaknesses."
~ Christian Boyens

Anne Benichou, Director of Communication and External Relations of the Ritz Paris, Christian Boyens, General Director of the Ritz Paris, and Estelle Touzet, Chief Sommelier of the Ritz Paris and first female to hold that position at the hotel.

Anne Benichou, Director of Communication and External Relations for the Ritz in Paris, worked with Anna Wintour before taking over corporate communications for the Ritz.

In 2009, Anne Benichou was introduced to the General Director of the Ritz and was given a chance – being offered the possibility of gaining access to the position, which allowed her to use her years of experience in marketing, which she originally gained in the fashion industry, in one of the most well-known hotels in Paris and in the world.

Anne Benichou, Estelle Touzet, Maya Johnson, and Anita Cotter

Estelle Touzet is the chief sommelier of The Ritz Paris. She landed the much-coveted position in Summer 2015, to much fanfare due to her being the first female sommelier to hold that position at the Ritz Paris and for having reached the top of what is a very male-dominated industry.

Lucie Pereyre de Nonancourt

The luncheon took place on October 13th, 2017, and invited certain members of Los Angeles travel, culinary and lifestyle media to reconnect with and update them on the Ritz Paris.

Alzheimer's Association Rita Hayworth Gala, October 24, 2017

On Tuesday, October 24th, the 34th annual Alzheimer's Association Rita Hayworth Gala was held at Cipriani 42nd Street. The event raised $2 million for critical Alzheimer's care, support and research programs. More than 5 million Americans are living with Alzheimer's disease, and it is the sixth leading cause of death in the United States.

Willie Geist, host of NBC News' Sunday TODAY with Willie Geist and Co-Host of MSNBC's Morning Joe, emceed the event and shared eye opening statistics about the impact that Alzheimer's on the country. The evening included remarks from Gala General Chair and Founder Princess Yasmin Aga Khan (daughter of Rita Hayworth) and 2017 Gala Co-Chairs Karyn Kornfeld, Robin Meltzer, and Daryl Simon. Aga Khan proudly announced that with the funds raised at this year's Rita Hayworth Gala, the New York City, Chicago and Palm Beach events crossed the $73 million mark in funds raised to support the Alzheimer's Association. Aga Khan praised Kornfeld, Meltzer, and Simon for their ardent support of the Association as this year's Gala Co-Chairs, calling them "tenacious, creative, passionate and beautiful," before introducing them to speak more about the devastating effects of the disease.

The Gala Co-Chairs elaborated on the various ways Alzheimer's affects people's lives, including their own, and the Alzheimer's Association's efforts to support those affected across the board. Simon discussed how her own mother lost her life to the disease, and the staggering statistic that by 2050, 16 million Americans will have Alzheimer's unless progress is made in finding a cure. Kornfeld continued on to discuss the importance of education and lifestyle changes in promoting overall brain health and potentially lowering the risk of cognitive decline. Meltzer concluded the Co-Chairs remarks by recognizing the countless hours and emotional, physical, and financial resources caregivers devote to family members living with Alzheimer's, highlighting the Alzheimer's Association's efforts to support these dedicated caregivers.

Nina Garcia, Editor in Chief of ELLE and Judge of Lifetime's Project Runway, was honored with the Champion Award. Garcia was honored for her commitment to fighting Alzheimer's and her many efforts to raise awareness of the disease through her internationally-recognized platform. Garcia was introduced by Tim Gunn, design educator, author and Emmy-winning Co-Host of Lifetime's Project Runway.

The theme of this year's Gala, 'Progress' highlighted the gala steering committee's commitment to end Alzheimer's disease.

DE LA VILLE DE PARIS

Azzedine Alaïa, one of the greatest and most uncompromising designers of the 20th and 21st centuries, died on Saturday in Paris. He was 77.

“I dressed women directly on their body, by intuition. This is how I gained experience,” he once said.

Mr. Alaïa dedicated his life to the belief that fashion was more than just garments; to him, they were as much an element in the empowerment of women and of a broader cultural conversation.

“My small luxury is Alaïa... for all his perfect dresses that cling to the body marvelously.” – Anne Benichou, Director of Communication and External Relations for the Ritz in Paris
