Nancy Plummer

President and Founder of All About Connecting, a Personal Dating, Matchmaker and Relationship Coaching service. Nancy, originally an on-air personality and filmmaker by trade, with a Masters degree, has been mentoring women and men all over the country and the world, transforming people's relationships - from their relationship with themselves, relationship with their children and family, to romantic relationships and marriage.

Nancy Plummer

Relationship Consultant
Matchmaker

Dear Nancy,

I am very interested in dating a gentleman I have known for years. He and I have always just been friends, working together on a few charity boards and seeing him at events.

Any advice on taking it to next level?

- Lonely in Palm Beach

Dear Lonely in Palm Beach,

Many men and women search high and low to find the love of their life, only to realize sometimes years later, that their perfect partner is actually standing right next to them. I'm always asking my clients what they want most in their soul mate, and the number one answer I hear is "a best friend." Interesting, statistics state that more than 50% of us do marry our best friend of the opposite sex. My best advice to turning a "friend" into a "lover" is to subtly change your behavior around him. Keep being the great friend you've always been, but try to be around him more often and at different times of the day and night. Also, start dressing a little more feminine and sexier in a classy way, start being flirtatious and complimentary and certainly increase your physical touch. Men want a nice, honest woman with a glint of sexiness and a lot of feminine class. What works best is when the turnaround is subtle enough that a man doesn't notice; in fact, the smartest woman will make men think it was their idea.

Good Luck!

-Nancy

Dear Nancy,

I'm a 37 year-old successful gentleman who travels quite a bit for my work. Is chivalry dead? I try to open the door for a woman, take her coat, pull out her chair, and stand when she approaches or gets up from the table, as I was taught to do. Instead of my actions being appreciated, the woman I am with usually gives me a weird look or asks me not make such a scene. Is it just me?

-Just Call Me Old Fashioned, London

Dear Old Fashioned,

No, chivalry is not dead, However, men are challenged these days to know what manners are a bit outdated and what gestures women still appreciate. Most women still love the idea of a man holding a door open for them, especially in cold weather. When entering a cab, don't forget to not only hold open the door, but make sure her skirt or coat gets tucked inside, rather than stuck in the door. When inside, nowadays, women seem in a hurry and tend to remove their coat on their own. I've found what works best for men is to gently offer by asking first, "May I help you with your coat?," and then waiting for her reply. In fact, nowadays, men do best who ask the lady what she would prefer instead of making assumptions. Most likely, young woman these days will find it odd for you to stand up whenever she approaches or gets up from the table. However, the older generation will probably all fall in love with you just for that very gesture. Here's to Chivalry!

Margrit

Questions for Margrit, the owner of the Salon

Interview By Maya Johnson

Q: When did you first realize you wanted to become a hair stylist, and where did you start?

A: I realized I would be a hairstylist as a teenager growing up in Germany where I had my training for three years

Q: What do you like most about being a stylist?

A: The things I love about being a stylist is making the client look incredibly better than when they walked in. I love to see their expression of happiness when I have finished my work.

Q: What are your most memorable shoots from elite?

A: I have worked on many elite people in my 40 years. Just to mention a few, The Duchess of Windsor, Mrs Astor, Mrs Dupont, Lily Pulitzer, The Kennedys. The elite still frequent the salon to this day and is always an amazing thrill and pleasure to work with them.

Q: How would you describe your style?

A: My style is always classic with a touch of elegance for evening which fits perfectly into the "Palm Beach Look" day or night.

Q: Who is your style icon?

A: My style icon is Audrey Hepburn

Q: Where do you draw your inspiration?

A: My inspiration comes from within my passion and creativity for this industry. Everyday is a new day and I am inspired always by my surroundings. Also as I travel I gain more inspiration from other areas of the world.

Q: Have there have been many changes in hair dressing over the years?

A: There have been many changes since I arrived in 1965 in Palm Beach. Hair styles were full of volume and glamour- jewelry adornment in the hair, additional hair pieces (which now we have seen a revival with hair extensions for simpler more chic styles.)

Q: What is your favorite hair cut?

A: My favorite hair cut was the Vidal Sassoon which was the revolution of haircuts.

Q: Your Salon is complete with Salon & Spa services. What are all of your services?

A: My Salon and Spa is a full service one stop destination for your beauty needs. We offer hair and nail services. We also offer Waxing, facials, massages, reflexology, endermology, spray tans, makeup services. We also can handle any private party as well as bridal parties.

Q: You also have a unique boutique of clothing and accessories. Do you carry brand names, or do you use your own creativity when you are creating your selection?

A: We have a beautiful boutique with so many gorgeous items, from blouses to dresses to jewelry and handbags. As I travel around, I collect unique pieces from particular vendors that best fit my clientele. We also are the destination for many trunk shows during the busy season from many fabulous local as well as international artists.
