Michelle-Marie Heinemann is an Etiquette Expert and Doyenne of a thousand exclusive parties.

Mrs. Heinemann comes to us from New York City answering those questions everybody needs to know!

Dear Mrs. Heinemann,

I am furious with my husband. Recently at a dinner party here in Palm Beach, with only A-Listers in attendance, my husband stood up to toast the hostess and started hitting his glass with his utensil. He became frustrated that the guests were still talking and hit his glass harder until it shattered into a million pieces. His hand was cut, the lady beside him had glass in her hair...it was awful and I wanted to crawl under the table. On the way home I told my husband it was unacceptable to hit his glass like that. He said that was the correct way to make a toast and he intends to keep doing this. Please Help! I am so upset.

Marjorie L. Palm Beach

Dear Marjorie,

Let me assure you this is NOT the way to get the crowd’s attention. This act is bourgeois and should not be performed anywhere and especially with a table full of “A-Listers.” I can only imagine the discomfort the hostess felt. Please tell your husband that while his intentions were honorable the correct way is to stand up at his seat and raise his glass and say “May I have your attention” as often as necessary until all eyes are on him. I am sure your husband is embarrassed, so don’t be too hard on him. I promise you, he will think twice before ever doing that again!

Yours Truly,
Mrs. Heinemann

CAMBER RANSOM

Camber Ransom lives in Towaco, NJ and is married to Sean Quigley and is mom to two young daughters, Madison & Chelsea.

Camber is owner of a Billboard Outdoor Advertising Company, CMS Consulting Group which is also headquartered in New Jersey.

Camber's involvement in Stroke Awareness and Prevention started when she saw her father suffer from a severe stroke at a young age and was never able to fully recover or live a full active life.

After meeting Janet, hearing her story and seeing her amazing and inspirational recovery from a major stroke, Camber decided that she wanted to become more involved in bringing awareness to the remarkable physicians and research being done at the University of Miami, Department of Neurology to not only help stroke victims but all others afflicted by devastating neurological diseases.

Camber has been on the committee for two years for the University of Miami's "Solving the Neurological Puzzle" Gala.

JANET LEVY

Janet had a major stroke in 2002. She had gone to a chiropractor and he ripped an artery by doing a chiropractic manipulation. Janet ended up having emergency brain surgery as the clot had lodged in her cerebellum. “When I awoke from surgery I was completely paralyzed. To open your eyes and not be able to move is a frightening experience. Less than two weeks earlier my life had been completely normal yet here I was unable to move. I was angry, scared, and panicked at the thought that this was it for me. How could this have happened from simply sleeping wrong on a new pillow and visiting a chiropractor?”

Within a few days she had regained limited use of her right side but was extremely weak. After six weeks in the hospital and a rehab facility, Janet was able to barely walk with a quad cane and her left arm was just “dead weight”. The prognosis was not good as the doctors predicted that she would never walk normally again. While she might not have been wheelchair bound, she would certainly have to use a quad cane for the rest of her life.

About 6 months after her stroke, she was taken to New York to see one of the country’s leading neurologists. Dr. Ralph Sacco. It was a huge pivotal time for her as she had been working so hard at her recovery but progress was very slow which led to much depression and frustration. Dr. Sacco was smart, kind, empathetic and inspiring. He assured her she was on the right path and gave needed encouragement and recommendations that helped greatly with her progress. After two years of a grueling schedule of therapies, Janet was able to get her life back. “Even though my balance is still off, I experience head pain most of the time and have weakness in my extremities, I am so fortunate and grateful that I am alive and could carry on a normal life.”

Years later, Dr. Ralph Sacco was lured by University of Miami’s President, Donna Shalala to head their Department of Neurology. Janet was most impressed with the work Dr. Sacco and his team were doing for research and care for Stroke, Alzheimer’s, Parkinson’s, ALS, Epilepsy and other devastating neurological diseases that she immediately signed up to support and raise awareness that such a great facility as the University of Miami is just an hour and a half away from Palm Beach.

Janet Levy along with her husband of 27 years, live here in Palm Beach full time. They have two wonderful sons, Justin & Mathew. Janet no longer works due to a stroke, but since 2005, she devotes her time to helping stroke victims across the country through her organization and supports the University of Miami’s, Department of Neurology in any way she can. She is proud to chair the third “Solving the Neurological Puzzle” Gala here in Palm Beach.

Nearly 700 patrons of the 2014 Cleveland Clinic Florida Ball enjoyed an evening of elegance and beautiful music by the world-renowned Cleveland Orchestra on January 22 at The Mar-a-Lago Club in Palm Beach. Ted Mandes, founder of the Palm Beach Wine Auction, has turned his love of wine into a gift of philanthropy. Today, Mandes has channeled his inspiration affair into a philanthropic endeavour.

As the founder of the Palm Beach Wine Auction, a benefit designed to support education programs at the Raymond F. Kravis Center for the performing arts, Mandes raises money to help children not only to further their education, but to discover their own artistic awakening like he did more than 50 years ago.

With paddles shaped like wine goblets, guests found it easy to raise a glass for the spirited bidding during the Seventh Annual Palm Beach Wine Auction on Thursday, January 30 at The Mar-a-Lago Club, Palm Beach. Nearly 200 arts patrons and oenophiles toasted to record-breaking funds for the award-winning education programs at the Kravis Center for the Performing Arts.

Under the direction of Michael Troise, retired Auction Director for NY Wines/Christie's Fine and Rare Wine Department and an expert with more than 40 years' experience tasting, buying and brokering wines, the live auction segment of the evening nearly doubled funds raised from last year.

In its seventh year, the Palm Beach Wine Auction event has uncorked more than $2 million to provide children in our region with an introduction to the arts, which they might not otherwise have had an opportunity to experience. The Kravis Center's education programs have served nearly 2 million children of all ages over the past 21 years.

"It is often said that our most valuable resource is our children," said Palm Beach Wine Auction chairman and founder, Ted Mandes. "At the Kravis Center, the development and education of future audiences has always been top priority."

In addition to the cases and magnums of rare and very special wines, other offerings resulted in bidding battles as well. Included was a stunning Rolex Yacht-Master II donated by Mayors Jewelers-- a steal at $15,000, and for her, an 18kt yellow gold Peretti bone cuff and cabochon green jade ring donated by Tiffany & Co. went for $12,500.

Following a reception featuring Krug Grande Cuvée champagne and charcuterie by the Chicago Omni Hotel's Joshua Hasho, five delicious courses gave guests an opportunity to peruse the auction catalogue and strategize bidding on their favorite lots.

Once seated, an amuse bouche of sunchoke tart with house smoked Verlasso salmon, pink peppercorn crème fraîche and micro arugula was presented by Chef Douglas Katz from Cleveland's Fire Food and Drink, The Katz Club Diner and Provenance at the Cleveland Museum of Art.

A first course of Hamachi with muscadine jus, celery, pine nuts and nasturtium was prepared by Chef Andrew Carmellini, from The Dutch at W South Beach. Chef Zach Bell from Boca Raton's Addison Reserve Country Club and Chef Lindsay Autry double teamed to present the second course of open blue cobia with flavors of Provence and gratin of celery root and Florida stone crab.

L-R: Chef Zach Bell, Chef Douglas Katz, Chef Andrew Carmellini, Chef Lindsay Autry, Chef Aaron Fuller, Chef Joshua Hasho, Chef Graham Randall, Chef Conor Hanlon

The entrée of porcini-crusted prime beef tenderloin and burgundy braised beef chuck was accompanied by truffle parsnip purée, candied fennel, cipollini and confit tomato, and presented by master of the house, The Mar-a-Lago Club's own Chef Aaron Fuller.

Chef Hasho then returned to prepare a cheese course of Mindoro smoked gorgonzola profiterole, triple cream panna cotta, beet variations and ursinus major aged sheep's milk with charred cashew butter.

Dessert featured another at-home The Mar-a-Lago Club superstar, Chef Graham Randall, overseeing the pistachio and white chocolate pavé with crème chantilly, strawberry gelato and pistachio sabayon.

Palm Beach Wine Auction sponsors included Madeline and Roderic Fink, Barbara and Jerome Golden, Steven M. Gottlieb and Laurie Raber-Gottlieb, Chris N. Kritikos, Stacey and Mark Levy, Rochelle and Craig Menin with Menin Development, Inc., Jane M. Mitchell, Park Foundation, PNC Wealth Management, Lewis M. Michelle-Marie Heinemann Birthday Party

Jon L. Heinemann hosted a Birthday Soirée at The Historical Pratt Mansion for his wife, the Artist and Philanthropist Michelle-Marie Heinemann in New York City.

It was a night filled with love and laughter as friends and family dined on delicacies prepared by Master Chef Joel Trocino and danced to the tunes of legendary DJ Anita Sarko.

The Birthday Girl, resplendent in a violet organza and velvet Yves Saint Laurent dress, welcomed over 170 guests from all over the world including...Monte Carlo, Rome and Gstaad-Switzerland.

Hudson Cornelius Heinemann presented his Mother with a beautiful bouquet of yellow roses and as the night progressed performed some extraordinarily impressive break-dancing moves with his friend Justin Zullin on the dance floor.

Hudson wore a Calvin Klein tuxedo while his sister, Hyacinth Cornelia Heinemann wore a custom made confection by Cheri du Viel of Paris, of similar colors matching her Mother.

The highlights of the Soirée were the children helping to blow out the candles on the cake that Pierre Moutane made that included an apricot filling with a white chocolate buttercream icing on a French vanilla cake....all beautifully decorated to match the artists dress, and the fabulous toast, the evenings host, Jon Heinemann gave:

" Thank all of you for caring to come and share this special occasion for Michelle-Marie my beautiful wife, and Michelle-Marie thank you for sharing the past 17 years with me. I care about you and love you with all of my heart and soul. Happy Birthday my love!"

Then everyone clapped and cheered and hit the dance floor whirling and twirling until the witching hour.
